Wellcome to Webhealth!

Webhealth has been specifically developed to provide another avenue of access for people to connect with Health and Social Services. You will also find generic information relevant to those who require it. The aim is to provide the most up to date information to assist in keeping our community connected.

This website has been built because we believe that people have the strengths and abilities to find their own solutions to issues in their lives when they have access to the best possible information and resources.

We are continually developing this site and welcome any new ideas or initiatives from the community.
